Tourist Visitation Here Totals 1,059,549 So Far This Year; See New Mark

More than 1,000,000 tourists have visited the Gettysburg Battlefield so far this year, the National Park office announced today.

Park Ranger John Rogers said the count kept by him, based on guided tours, an automatic counter placed on Hancock Ave., spot counts of visitors to the National Cemetery, and those who camped on the battlefield, showed 294,997 visited the field during July.

That brought the estimated total for the year so far to 1,059,549.

During the first seven months of this year 248,670 more persons toured the battlefield than during the comparable seven months of 1960, according to Rogers' figures.

Visitation in the first seven months of 1960 was 810,879.

MAY SET RECORD

Last month showed only a slight gain over July a year ago however. The 294,997 for the month was only 1,483 over the 293,514 tallied in July 1960.

Rogers said that if visitation "holds up" in August, September and October, comparable to the increases shown during the first seven months, there is a possibility that the total may set a new record this year. The present all time high was set in 1938 when the 75th anniversary of the Battle was observed with the last Reunion of the Blue and Gray. That year 1,554,234 visitors came to Gettysburg.

The month by month totals this year are: January 13,160; February, 17,765; March, 81,852; April, 176,122; May, 225,713; June, 249,940 and July 294,997.

During the same months in 1960 the figures were: January, 19,298; February, 15,958; March, 12,670; April, 135,664; May, 148,309; June, 176,062; July, 293,514.

ASSERTS DEMS WILL DESTROY 33RD DISTRICT

The destruction of the 33rd District (Adams-Franklin counties) in the state Senate is the goal of leaders of the Democratic party, State Senator D. Elmer Hawbaker (R-Franklin) warned Monday night. Sen. Hawbaker addressed the Ways and Means Committee of Republican Women who were guests of Rep. and Mrs. Enos H. Horst at their summer home at Caledonia.

"Crying that the state legislature is dominated by rural counties, Democratic leaders in the Senate have introduced a bill which would attach Adams County to one district and Franklin to another and destroy the 33rd District," Sen. Hawbaker declared. He said the city of Chester, a Democratic party stronghold, would pick up the seat under this legislation.

CITIES TAKE PLUMS

"While protesting rural domination, the cities are in fact filling nearly all of the leadership positions in the state Senate," Hawbaker said. "The lieutenant governor, the president protem, the majority leader and chairman of eight of the major committees are Philadelphia Democrats. Four committee chairmen are from Pittsburgh and one each from Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Reading and York — all Democratic-controlled cities.

"At the same time, Democratic leadership is arguing for more city representation in the state legislature, they are unwilling to surrender the congressional seat which, according to the recent census, should be given up by Philadelphia," Hawbaker added.

AUTHOR LAUDS HANCOCK ROLE AT MEETING

"One could make a good case to support a contention that the Battle of Gettysburg has more influence on present-day Supreme Court decisions than does the strict wording of the Constitution," Glenn Tucker, author of a number of books on the Civil War, told the fourth annual Civil War Study Group at its session this morning at Gettysburg College.

Speaking on "Hancock at Gettysburg," the Civil War historian and former newspaperman said, "Rarely has a subordinate general had so many opportunities to influence the course of a decisive battle and shape the destiny of a great nation as came to Hancock at Gettysburg. While Gettysburg marked the turn of the tide against the Confederacy and presaged the reunification of the states, the nation which emerged from the war was not the comparatively loose confederation of self-reliant commonwealths such as had existed during the first 70-odd years of the Republic.

"Both sides gained, but both lost much at Gettysburg. Here on this battlefield the doctrine of local self-government yielded to that of a strong central power. Perhaps it was inevitable that such a transition had to come about in a world of intense nationalistic rivalries, but the certain fact is that states rights did go down to defeat here on this very field.

NEW TREND EMERGES

"The old government endured, but it was not the same government. The trend since the armies met on Cemetery Ridge and Culp's Hill has been inexorably toward the concentration of authority. The expanding federal government, nourished by constitutional amendments, new legislation, broadened executive powers and complementary court decisions, is now supreme. If its growth has not been solicited, then, at least, it has been

SAYS SCHOOL EXPENSES MAY MEAN MORE TAX

"If the General Assembly is going to keep on mandating school programs and services and new expenses, they've got to be prepared to help pay the bill," John J. Hertz, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State School Directors' Association, told Adams County school directors at their annual summer convention this morning.

One hundred fifty school directors and guests gathered for the annual convention-picnic at the South Mountain fairgrounds this morning. A dinner was served on the grounds at noon with games and contests scheduled for the directors and their families this afternoon. The county board of school directors also scheduled a session there this afternoon.

WILL REQUIRE TAX

"There is no assurance now of an increase in state subsidies for schools," Hertz told the convention this morning during a one-hour address. "One big reason is that nobody in the General Assembly wants a new tax program and that's what it's going to take to finance the schools and the changes that are proposed. The governor's tax plan is one he felt sure the Republicans would oppose."

Hertz said the state school directors' association has for years stood for a "broad base tax program to support public schools." He said the specific type of tax plan has been left to the governor and the General Assembly.

CITES COLLEGE BILL

Most of his talk was devoted to pending legislation and a few education bills already signed. Hertz, a former Department of Public Instruction official, said "the education bills of importance to the people haven't begun to move yet." Most bills proposed to carry out the recommendations of the governor's committee have been opposed by the state school directors, Hertz said. A joint House and Senate committee has come up with bills that are more satisfactory but do not meet all goals of the state directors, he said.

Reds Claim Polio Epidemic In W. Germany May Force Limited Travel From East

By LOYAL GOULD

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists threatened today to restrict travel between East and West Germany, claiming a polio epidemic in West Germany is spreading the disease across the Iron Curtain border. Western observers saw the move as another attempt to dam the rising flow of refugees streaming into West Berlin from East Germany. A record high of 30,444 refugees poured into the Western sector of the divided city in July.

The East German news agency ADN said the Red regime's Health Ministry asked the Interior Ministry to take steps "in regard to travel between West Germany and the German Democratic Republic that will produce the best protection for the citizenry."

NO DATE SET

The steps were not spelled out nor was any date given for their application but Western observers

LACK OF RAIN, COOL WEATHER DURING JULY

July was slightly cooler than usual in Gettysburg, according to the records of The Gettysburg Times Weather Station.

Average temperature for July locally, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau, was 75.9 degrees. The town had an average temperature during July of 75.5. Thus it was, on an average, two-fifths of a degree cooler per day than normal.

But while the temperature was "about average," there was a noticeable deficiency in rainfall during the month. Normally in July the town has 4.13 inches of rain. Last month total precipitation was 2.53 inches, or 1.6 inches less than normal. The town had rain on 15 days of the 31 during the month, but the largest amount in any one day was only slightly over a half inch. During 1960 the town had 6.25 inches of rain in July.

Highest temperature during the month was 95 on July 22, and two other days recorded 94s. A total of ten days had maximum temperatures of 90 or above. On three days, July 4, 5 and 6, the thermometer never climbed above the 70s. On 18 days the high daily readings were in the 80s.

The low for the month was a 54, recorded on both July 8 and 9. On eight days the temperature never went below the 70 mark.

CHAMBER OKS YULE PROGRAM, SALE SLOGANS

The board of directors of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Monday afternoon in their office in the Plaza building gave the "go ahead" signal for a home Christmas decorations contest in December, but could reach no final conclusions on how to solve the problem of stopping shady salesman without penalizing the hundreds of legitimate salesmen who visit the community.

No debate was needed to approve plans of the Civic Affairs Committee to promote a home Christmas decorations contest this year. In fact most directors felt that such a contest was long needed in the community.

But another problem brought to the attention of the directors by the Civic Affairs committee led to no final conclusions. The committee has been studying the problem of what to do to protect the public from the unscrupulous salesman without harming the legitimate salesman. Its one suggestion so far is a program of public education, which the directors approved. Another tentative suggestion was that the Chamber of Commerce set up some type of recommendation service giving approval to honest salesmen. The board of directors turned down that suggestion, feeling that it imposes an impossible task on the local office.

WARNING SLOGANS

In connection with the program of education, the committee plans to make up some warning slogans concerning "reading the fine print in the contract before you sign," etc., with the hope that members will carry such slogans in their regular advertising. Basis of the proposals is a situation occurring over a period of some years during which some local residents signed contracts which later led to court action, and others signed contracts which led to purchases at a much higher rate than the going amount for similar services.

Directors noted that the problem is "extremely complicated." Several years ago several "salesmen" were through the area selling aluminum siding. Later they were sentenced in the Adams County court for fraud. At the same time, the Chamber directors noted, there are numerous legitimate contractors for aluminum siding made by countians annually. The directors held that the problem can best be solved by individuals making inquiries and getting comparable prices before they permit "high pressure" salesmen to sell articles to them.

The membership committee reported 153 members in the Chamber at the present time. The directors expressed pleasure at the manner in which the committee system has been working — each member is named to one of the four operating committees of the Chamber — and encouraged continued attendance at committee meetings on the part of the members. The record of attendance at the meetings this summer was reported by President Julian Estep as "most encouraging."

The Industrial Committee was commended by the board for its efforts in seeking to secure new industry and for the Better Industrial Education program it plans to hold this fall.

Next meeting of the directors will be held at the C of C office August 28.

22 Persons Visit Local Facilities

Twenty members of the Gettysburg Women's Civic Council accompanied by two members of the health committee of borough council, Mrs. James Schwenk and Richard Smith, toured the local Municipal Authority's water pumping station along Marsh Creek and the sewer disposal plant along Rock Creek Monday evening. Mrs. Guyon Buehler, president of the council, who led the tour, said the members were impressed by the efficiency of both establishments. Frank Mumper, Fred Tipton and Robert Shealer of the Municipal Authority staff served as guides for the tour.

FINAL NOTICES ON NEW TAX ARE MAILED TODAY

The last of approximately 20,000 letters were mailed today by the county commissioners to notify adult citizens of their new occupation assessment which will be the basis for occupation taxes next year.

Mailing of the notices, estimated variously at from 19,000 to 27,000 letters, started last Friday, and the next day persons started calling to find out "what is this all about." Tax collectors reported they were receiving similar queries.

ASSESSMENT FIGURE

All explained two things that seemed to disturb the callers: That the new occupation assessment schedule was announced publicly some months ago and a number of newspaper articles concerning it have appeared since; that the amount listed in the letters, ranging from $10 to $800, as the occupation assessment, does not mean a tax of that amount. It means an assessment, on which the tax will be based.

The amount of tax will depend on how many mills are levied by the taxing authorities, the county, township or borough and the school board. What that millage will be will not be known until next year.

For most countians the new occupation assessment will probably mean an increase in their occupation tax, but that will result from the decision of their taxing authorities. Some may so lower the millage on occupations that there will be no increase over present taxes except for those placed in the upper scale of the assessment.

PRESENT SCALE

The present scale of occupation assessments shows that taxpayers can be assessed $10, $50, $80, $100, $150 or $200, depending on their occupation.

The new scale which goes into effect in 1962 has these 13 possible assessments: $10, $100, $150, $200, $250, $300, $350, $400, $450, $550, $650, $725 and $800.

The present occupation assessment is about $1,800,000 for the county. The new scale will produce an assessment of "about four times that" according to the present estimates. The new occupation assessment is expected to reduce the pressure on increasing real estate taxes on the part of the taxing powers. It is also expected to be "fairer" than the present occupation assessment.

The $10 assessment, lowest on the list, is for those who are physically incapacitated.

Each of the letters sent the taxpayers notes that the individual may appeal the assessment given him. Such appeals must be made before September 1 to the commissioners. Hearings will be held during September of the appeals from the assessments.

Countian Is Fined For Bookmaking

A $200 fine was imposed by Judge George W. Atkins, York, Monday on George Ginter, New Oxford, who pleaded guilty to bookmaking and a charge of conspiracy to do an unlawful act. Judge Atkins told Ginter that if he should appear before the court again on similar charges he would go to jail.

Atty. Morton H. Kagen, counsel for Ginter, presented letters from two physicians concerning Ginter's health. Since his arrest in Hanover on August 13, 1957, Ginter has undergone several operations, including one on an eye. He also suffered fractures of the skull, nose and jaw in automobile accidents, Kagen told the court.

Kagen said it was Ginter's physical condition which led him to participate in the bookmaking operation as a collector of bets. Ginter was unable to work because of his health, the attorney said.

$7,500 BLAZE IN FAIRFIELD THIS MORNING

Damage was estimated at $7,500 by Assistant Fire Chief Kenneth Sites, Fairfield, early this morning when fire destroyed the five-room home of Seymour "Jack" Bobo, located two miles east of Fairfield, off the Gettysburg-Fairfield Rd.

Sites said the frame and concrete block bungalow was "enveloped in flame" when firemen arrived.

Using water from a pond at the home of Jerry Spence Jr. nearby, the 25 Fairfield firemen with two pumps kept the blaze from spreading to a trailer home of Bobo and several outbuildings nearby.

TRUCKERS SOUND ALARM

Firemen arrived about 5:10 o'clock this morning after receiving a call from Jerry Spence, Sites said. Truck drivers on the Gettysburg-Fairfield Rd. saw the flames and blew the horns of their trucks until the Spence family was awakened and discovered the fire nearby.

Bobo, according to Sites, was asleep in his trailer and did not know of the blaze until firemen arrived.

Sites said the fire "scorched" the trailer and other nearby structures.

No one resided in the house and Bobo told firemen the last he was in the building was about 10 o'clock Monday night.

All that remained of the home and its furnishings were the concrete block walls, Sites said. He estimated the house as worth $5,000 and furnishings at $2,500.

ASC GROUPS REPORT PLAN FOR ELECTION

Members of the community committees of the six districts into which Adams County is divided by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee met Monday evening at the ASC office to make plans for the forthcoming election of community and county ASC committees.

Myles Starner, chairman of the county group, told the community committeemen that regulations require them to nominate at least 10 persons from their districts for election as community committeemen by August 16. He also explained that any person seeking a post on the community committees who has not been nominated by the community committees can have his name placed on the ballot by submitting a petition signed by 10 farmers to the county ASC office by August 7.

Under the law when a person submits a petition the county ASC must act immediately to notify him whether he is eligible for the post and, if he is declared ineligible, he has an immediate right to appeal.

WILL SEND BALLOTS

August 25 ballots will be sent all farmers in the county listing the names of the nominees for the community committees and the farmers are to complete their voting and mail the ballots to the county ASC by September 5.

Friday evening, September 8, at 7:30 o'clock an "open meeting" will be held at the ASC office to count the ballots and determine which of the nominees were elected to the community committees.

During the week of September 11 the chairman of the six community committees will meet at the ASC office to elect the county ASC committee.

On October 1 all of the newly elected officials, community and county, will take office.

Seek Support For UN Session

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Asian and African delegates worked today to get the backing of 50 U.N. members for an emergency session of the General Assembly Thursday to take up Tunisia's charge of French aggression at Bizerte.

Kenneth K. S. Dadzie of Ghana, chairman of the group seeking the session, said he had collected signatures of 21 delegations on a request to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and hoped to get the other 29 by Wednesday. Hammarskjöld must call the session if a majority of the 99 U.N. members request it.

Some delegates predicted the drive would fail because many of France's former territories in Africa would withhold their support. Others predicted Latin-American and Communist nations would fill the gap.

HEMINGWAY'S DEATH CAUSE IS LEFT OPEN

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP)—Filing of the official death certificate has failed to solve the mystery of the violent death of author Ernest Hemingway.

Blaine County Coroner Ray McGoldrick confirmed that he left blank the space which would have shown whether the death was an accident or a suicide.

The certificates are not made public.

Hemingway's body was found in a foye off the living room of his Ketchum hunting lodge, July 2. He had been killed by a blast from one of his favorite shotguns.

SELF-INFLICTED WOUND

McGoldrick told The Associated Press in response to questions that the cause of death listed under the medical report section of the certificate said Hemingway died of a "self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head."

"That was the only thing put on there," he said.

Idaho death certificates also provide space for the coroner to specify if the death was an accident, suicide or homicide.

Asked if he left that space blank, McGoldrick replied: "I sure did."

A section of Idaho law, printed on the back of the death certificate, says that "causes of death, which may be the result of either disease or violence, shall be carefully defined; and if from violence, its nature shall be stated, and whether accidental, suicidal, or homicidal."

McGoldrick said he was aware of that provision of the law, but he indicated he did not expect anyone to challenge his handling.

He ruled out the possibility that an insurance company might bring legal action in an attempt to force a ruling on the death.

Hemingway, McGoldrick said, "did not have any insurance at all, according to his wife and son. That's one thing we wanted to know about."

sanctioned by a patient public opinion. The average citizen in business, agriculture, the professions and trades, who once had little contact with federal authority, now finds it always at his elbow.

"One of the caprices of history, which is so often whimsical, was that the doctrine of states' rights should fall and centralized power triumph largely at the hands of an ardent Jeffersonian and Jeffersonian Democrat—Hancock—a lifelong advocate and defender of local self-government."

Tucker, now a resident of Flat Rock, N. C., author of "High Tide at Gettysburg" and "Hancock the Superb" among other books, said that it was Hancock who saved the day on July 1, 2 and 3, 1863. On the afternoon of July 1, his arrival halted the retreating troops and his method of setting up the troops from Culp's Hill to Round Top led the Confederate generals to halt because they thought there was a far superior force on the Union side than actually existed.

HOLDS CENTER

On the afternoon of July 2, 1863, it was Hancock who prevented a Confederate breakthrough of the Union lines both in battling against Longstreet's troops and later in staving off Wright's attack on the Union center. In addition Hancock was "personally responsible," Tucker said, for driving back the Confederates after they had broken through the Union lines on Culp's Hill on the evening of July 2. On July 3, it was Hancock's men who stood against Pickett's charge.

Wounded when a shell struck his saddle, sending a ball, a nail and part of the saddle into his leg Hancock wrote his last recommendation concerning Gettysburg—that since Pickett had been repulsed the Union army should attack.

His recommendation was not carried out. Had it been perhaps his viewpoint—that Lee's Army could be destroyed—would have been correct.

This afternoon the sessions will continue with a talk by Freeman Cleaves on "Meade at Gettysburg."

STOCKS GAIN A BIT

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market struggled to move higher early this afternoon with only mixed success.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 0.10 to 248.90 with industrials up 0.70, down 0.40 and utilities down 0.10.

Gains and declines for most issues ran from fractions to a point or so.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial at noon was up 0.94 at 706.81. This is above the record closing high of 705.96.

HIGH SCHOOL BIDS

SAYS SCHOOL

House Bill 1701 seems to offer too little increase in state reimbursement on high school building; House Bill 1702 on community colleges provides for a needed service but, "if we can't get funds to operate our elementary and high schools, how can we run colleges," Hertz asked.

He also discussed House Bill 1836 which provides for reorganization of school districts into 4,000-pupil units. He said it is preferable to the governor's earlier bill of 10,000-pupil districts but needs to be amended to provide for a popular referendum if it is to get the backing of school directors, he said.

Hertz answered questions after his talk and on the matter of state support for schools he said: "Pennsylvania with its wealth certainly has the potential to raise funds to finance its schools. It's just a question of finding the means to be used." He cited extension of sales taxes through removing exemptions or wage and income taxes as possible sources of school funds.

STU MILLER IS LAUDED BY A. L. SLUGGERS

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP)—American League All-Stars agreed today they never had seen a pitcher like Stu Miller—and hoped they never see him again.

Sluggers Rocky Colavito, Mickey Mantle and Roy Sievers spoke in open admiration of the clever San Francisco relief ace after Monday's 1-1 rain-called tie in the second 1961 All-Star game.

New York Yankee Whitey Ford, the brilliant 19-game winning southpaw, praised the work of a fellow craftsman. "I saw in the bullpen and marvelled at the way he got those guys out."

JUST WASN'T THERE

"He's amazing," Sievers said. "One moment I saw a pitch coming right over the plate as big as a grapefruit. But when I swung it wasn't there."

Sievers, Chicago veteran, was Miller's strikeout victim for the third out in the ninth with the winning run on second base.

All the batters agreed Miller was a magician with breaking pitches ranging from slow to slower. He didn't overpower anybody. "They're all tough," Colavito said of the National League pitchers. "Miller's tough like the rest of them, maybe more. He has lots of moves, lots of motion."

ALLOWED ONE HIT

Mantle, who struck out in the American League's ninth-inning rally that just didn't jell, echoed Colavito. "He's got that change-up that's real tough, keeps you off balance, does a lot of things out there."

Miller allowed only one hit in the three innings he worked, a leadoff single to Al Kaline in the ninth. Then he struck out Mantle, Kaline stole second while he was in the process of striking out Elston Howard, Sievers, a pinch hitter, was his last victim.

AMMONIA LINE BREAKS; 10,000 FLEE HOMES

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—At least 10,000 persons left their homes in nearby towns for several hours early today when a coupling broke and poison fumes filled the air as ammonia was being transferred from a barge to a dockside tank along the Illinois River.

State police said at least 19 persons were hospitalized before the all-clear was given after more than four hours. Residents then were allowed back in their homes.

Six persons were released after treatment, and none of the hospitalized was in serious condition.

The entire population of nearby Bartonville—more than 7,200 persons—and most of Creve Coeur's 3,000-plus residents left the area after officials urged an evacuation until the air cleared.

As the winds shifted, the fumes drifted into North Pekin and East Peoria.

Creve Coeur police said the coupling had been repaired and no more ammonia fumes were escaping. The fumes could be deadly if inhaled in great quantities.

Hundreds of evacuees crowded the Bradley University field house in this north central Illinois city of about 102,000. Others went into several high school gymnasiums and the nearby mess hall of the Hannah City radar base, to wait for the air to clear.

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Harry Reihl, 59, Upper Darby, was killed Monday at the White Motor Co. plant in West Whiteland Township. He was crushed when a fork lift truck tilted and dropped its load of truck frames upon him.

Reihl was standing on the lift to counterbalance its load, police said. Walter Manning, Rosemont, operator of the lift, jumped clear.

"IN GOD'S CREATION"

There's a spot in God's creation... not too far and not too near... where all worldly worries lessen... and my heart is filled with cheer... happy haven of contentment... where the birds sing all the day... chirping tender songs of gladness... as they grace nature's bouquet... there is peace beyond comparing... in this wonderland of dreams... every moment is a treasure... spent in drifting on clear streams... life takes on a new perspective... in this place designed by God... faith and hope are warmly woven... in the pleasant path I trod... so I go there when I'm weary... to acquire strength I need... there's a spot in God's creation... for all hearts that ache and bleed.

A Lovelier You

By MARY SUE MILLER

MID-SUMMER MAGIC. Now if ever is the time to make the most of fragrance. Scents work magic in reviving heat-depressed feelings—your own and those of the people around you.

Merely splash your wrists with cologne and, presto, you feel fresher. A quick cologne rub brings instant respite to perspiring hands and burning feet. The relief is even more pronounced when the rub follows a sudsy sponging.

After a bath or shower, the cooler is a throat-to-toe massage with chilled cologne. For this purpose keep a bottle in the refrigerator, or pour a little into a bowl with one ice cube. Aerosol fragrance need not, and should not, be chilled. Their spray always reacts like dew on the skin.

Another powerful lift comes from spraying cologne or perfume into the air, and then walking through the mist. In that way you are engulfed in a frosty atmosphere. For more of the same, touch perfume to the back of the knees, the crook of the elbows, and the pulse spot in the hollow of the throat.

At this point, a doubting Thomas may wonder how fragrance performs these cooling tricks. Are the effects real or imaginary? Well now, the alcohol in fragrance actually does cool the skin. The scent is what gives you a sense of buoyancy. And light floral or spicy scents provide it in the greatest measure.

The Bendersville Yankees of the Upper Adams Little League avenged a previous defeat when they defeated the Bott Boi Club of Harrisburg 12-2 at Bendersville Saturday afternoon. The Harrisburg outfit had previously won a 3-2 decision on its home grounds.

Kenny Orner rapped a single and double to account for two of the Yankee's four hits. Van Clark, Yankee hurler, gave up four scattered hits and fanned 15.

Big Little Baseball Loop

The American Legion came from behind to take a 14-13 decision from the Phillips 66 outfit Monday evening in the final regular league game of the season. The loss eliminated the hopes of Phillips for tying for third place.

Post-season playoffs will start Wednesday evening when the first-place Eagles meet the third-place Elks. Thursday evening the second-place Legion tangles with the fourth-place Phillips. Winners of those games will meet Friday evening for the playoff title.

Both teams scored heavily in the opening inning of Monday's game. The Legion tabbed five runs in the top of the frame when they batted around. Mike Herring led off with a double to right and Jim Finkbner reached base on an error. Dane Kennel singled Herring home. John Longanecker blasted a home run over the left field fence to account for three more runs and then Dave Knox homered over the right-centerfield fence for the fifth tally.

Phillips came back with 10 runs in their half of the inning as 15 batters went to the plate. Seven hits, five walks and one error produced the runs with Lutz and Mike Flynn each rapping a pair of hits.

Herring and Kennel each poled three hits for the winners while Flynn also cracked out three for Phillips.

Ticketless Worker Shoots Airliner Pilot And Agent

EDITOR'S NOTE—Phil Robertson, reporter for the Chico Enterprise-Record, heard a short-wave radio broadcast of a police chase toward the Chico airport. He raced there in time to get the following story first-hand.

By PHIL ROBERTSON
Reporter for the
Chico Enterprise-Record

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—An Arkansas construction worker wanted to get home to his wife so bad Monday night he boarded an airliner without a ticket and shot a ticket agent and a pilot who wouldn't take off with him.

Bruce Britt Sr., 40, of Smackover, Ark., was booked by Sheriff Larry Gillick on a charge of attempted murder.

The pilot, Capt. Oscar Cleal, 42, of Menlo Park, Calif., was shot in the head and stomach. His optic nerve was severed and he was blinded in both eyes. His condition was critical.

TICKET AGENT CRITICAL

The ticket agent, Bill Hicks, 45, of Chico, was shot in the back. He too was in critical condition.

The story began with a short-wave radio account of a 120-mile an hour chase of a speeder who out-distanced highway patrolmen. It was Britt, racing 30 miles from Corning, Calif., 30 miles northwest of Chico, in an attempt to make the Pacific Airways DC3 southbound flight in less than 30 minutes. He didn't have time to buy a ticket and he didn't have money for one. He hadn't stopped to draw his pay at a Corning construction job.

"I thought I could bluff my way," he said.

ORDERED OFF

Britt raced for the plane with the ticket agent behind him. He got aboard but Hicks ordered him off.

Witnesses said Britt jerked a pistol out of his overnight bag, shot Hicks in the back, fired twice more, then ran into the pilot's compartment, put the gun to Capt. Cleal's head and yelled: "Take off, or I'll take over."

Cleal taxied the plane down the runway at slow speed.

FIRST SHOTS

Britt shouted: "Get this plane in the air."

Then he fired two shots into Cleal.

Copilot Allan Wheeler, 29, of Burlingame, Calif., grabbed the pistol. Britt came at him with a knife.

PASSENGERS HELP

Three passengers moved in and helped overpower Britt. They were J. Albert Hutchinson, a San Francisco attorney, who was barely missed by an earlier bullet from Britt's pistol; Clifford C. Jackson of Chico and Robert Shute of Carmichael, Calif.

Manacled, Britt explained that his wife, Melba, had asked him to come home.

"I didn't have a ticket and thought I'd run a bluff," Britt said. "I got excited when the agent told me I would have to stay off the plane, and I just started shooting. That's the last I remember."

Butte County Dist. Atty. C. Keith Lyde said Britt told him he and his wife had been separated, and she telephoned Monday to tell him she would take him back.

Britt was taken to Devitt State Hospital in Auburn, Calif., for observation.

Riding with Russell

by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL

Allowing the car to get full or rattles is no way to baby it.

That repair job you had done on the car may seem like merely a process of correction, but don't be surprised if its larger benefits lie in heading off some more serious trouble.

Every worn shock absorber that is replaced heads off possible breakage of one of the car's springs. That leak at one of the brake cylinders may reveal the fact that the brake fluid is not heavy duty and thus may cause failure when the brakes heat up on a hot day.

We can see the process better by reversing it. Take a worn front shock absorber, for instance. Tolerating this condition is likely to result in a lot of front-wheel shimmy and excessive front tire wear. Let the engine continue missing and the shock on the driveline is likely to wear the universal joints.

There's a lot of savings in every repair bill, hard as it may be to see it.

FOR FUTURE REFERENCE

A simple way to check on the accuracy of the oil pressure gauge, if it seems to be registering trouble, is to accelerate the engine until the gauge shows maximum pressure and then let the engine slow down to idle speed. Now repeat the process. Obviously if the gauge does not show the same reading and behavior pattern it is not telling the truth and needs to be replaced. But if it continues to show the same behavior and the reading is abnormal, then the chances are the trouble is with the oil pump or the engine's bearings which play a role in pressure.

It is surprising how many cars are operating with broken springs. This may not at all be evidenced by sag except to the trained eye. Sometimes the break in a leaf type spring is at the center where it is not seen and where it may not cause a particular trouble for some time. Coil springs often break at their top or bottom. All I noticed with this condition on one car several years ago was an odd snapping noise.

Spring trouble often shows up as odd steering action, a marked tendency for the car to wander or dart and dive. If a regular alignment job fails to check this it would be smart to look into the possibility of trouble with the springs.

"Excessive pinging may or may not be due to a too lean carburetor mixture, but it isn't necessary to tinker with the carburetor to find out. The way the engine behaves before it warms up is your clue.

"For the first few minutes of operation the automatic choke will provide quite a rich mixture, but lift the hood and when you find that the choke valve has opened, put the hood down again and then see if the engine pings. If there is no pinging until the engine reaches normal operating temperature you'll know that the trouble is not a lean mixture.

WHAT'S YOUR TROUBLE?

Q. There is a peculiar whistling noise under the hood when the engine is running. It is definitely not a fan belt noise. G. E. G.

A. The element for the air cleaner may be upside down.

Q. There seems to be considerable vibration which concentrates at the clutch. Shifting is normal, however, without any gear clashing or grabbing. Wm. L. G.

A. Worn universal joints that create propeller shaft whip would have this effect on the clutch.

Q. My car pulls to the left. Do you think that I am due for some expensive front-end work on the car? L. D.

A. Let's try something simple such as a too tight left front break adjustment.

Q. Even with a new battery the headlights seem to brighten when I accelerate the engine. L. V. McB.

A. Better check for a poor ground.

Q. Several times lately I have been able to detect a sharp crackling sound when accelerating. Most of the time there is so much street noise I can't hear it. The engine does not seem to run smoothly on the pickup. W. R.

A. It would be a good idea to check the distributor cap to see if it is cracked. That would cause flashover of high tension current especially, when accelerating.

Q. What would be the proper adjustment for the drive belt of the compressor for the air conditioning system? N. J.

A. The belt is just about right when there is a one-half inch deflection midway between the compressor and the drive pulley.

Q. For some time the engine of my car has been idling smoothly. It has really had a going over. Compression is reasonably equal in the various cylinders, and a change in idling speed doesn't make any difference. Ignition is excellent. I have tried a new carburetor but without any improvement. Now what? D. D. C.

A. Just on a hunch test the fuel pump's pressure. I have a feeling that the carburetor is flooding and the engine loading because the pump is delivering too much fuel.

Q. Does the engine "varnish" come from using the car for too many short cold runs? N. L.

A. Varnish is more of a hot engine problem. It is likely to form on the pistons when an engine is driven long periods at too high a temperature. Under such conditions the oil breaks down.

Q. What would cause a sharp rap in the engine at idling? L. F.

A. It is hard to pinpoint anything like this from a distance, but probably it is an indication of a loose piston pin or a connecting rod out of line.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Most motorists believe there is little they can do to help reduce the mounting toll of highway mishaps except perhaps to try to drive more safely and with consideration for others.

Edward R. Klamm, safety director for one of the leading auto insurance companies in the nation, does not agree with this attitude. He thinks every driver should actively participate in accident prevention, and he offers a practical suggestion how to do it.

Klamm's idea is simple: The next time a defective or confusing traffic sign misleads you into taking a wrong turn or involves you in a dangerous situation, don't just grumble and then forget it. Make a note of the location of the hazardous sign and call it to the attention of the police or highway authorities.

DEPEND ON SIGNS

Klamm pointed out that we depend greatly on traffic signs to guide us along our way. Particularly at night, when our vision is limited, signs may be our only means for determining a safe route. Signs may be obscured by shrubbery, defaced by accident, vandalism or weathering, or hard to read because they are too small, poorly located or lack reflectorization to make them visible at a distance after dark. If they fail to do their job for any reason, accidents may result.

Highway departments do their best to keep their signs in good condition, but often they do not have the manpower to make daily checks of their entire systems. The men responsible for highway safety appreciate motorists' help in reporting signs that are a menace to drivers. In most cases you will find that such reports will be acted on quickly.

In Tulare County, Calif., the highway commissioner provides post cards that motorists carry in the glove compartment and mark with the location of any defective signs they notice. With the help of the cards mailed in by volunteer "sign-spotters," the commissioner is able to locate and repair or replace bad signs before they cause trouble.

None of us like pointless or irresponsible "griping," but this is one area in which complaining in the right way to the right people can make a positive contribution to highway safety, Klamm said.

Disregard of traffic laws eventually catches up with violators permanently. New Jersey findings indicate. Forty-three per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents had previous arrests and convictions for moving violations, while 12 per cent of the drivers had been involved in previous accidents.

A Melbourne, Australia, police physician has suggested a new way to test the sobriety of motorists. He contends that a man should be ordered to remove his trousers because it takes excellent coordination and balance for a man to stand on one leg while removing his trousers from the other.

GOP ALLIANCE ASKS REVERSE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Republican Alliance has asked the State Superior Court to reverse Judge Raymond Pace Alexander's dismissal of a petition for a grand jury investigation into the city hall scandals.

Herbert A. Fogel, Alliance counsel, said Monday he would ask that the appeal, placed on the court's December list, be moved up to the September term.

Fogel added that the Alliance will fight any move by the city to merge the Alliance appeal with an appeal by the Republican City committee, which the Alliance is fighting for control of the GOP organization.

The city committee, which also had petitioned for a grand jury investigation, filed an appeal with the State Supreme Court July 25. The appeal was scheduled to be heard the week of Nov. 13.

The scandals unfolded after it was found that the city had been defrauded in repairs on the Frankford Elevated transit line. Several city officials were fired.

EXPERTS EYE NEW SKIPPING SPACE SHIPS

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer
BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Space ships that could skip off the earth's atmosphere for a second try at landing in case of a re-entry goof were forecast today by a government scientist.

Dr. Eugene S. Love of the Langley Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said possibilities exist for designing space craft so they could bounce off the earth's atmosphere, like a stone skipping off water, in the event the original return approach from outer space was faulty.

Addressing a space science conference at Virginia Polytechnic Institute—and amplifying in an interview—he said such a space ship might approach to within 80 miles of the earth, and then zoom off into a 300-mile-high orbit to await a new try at a more favorable landing.

SPECIAL CHEMICAL JETS

Dr. Love said NASA scientists see chances of equipping space ships with special chemical jets—or even airplane flaps—so they could be positioned to get a bouncing lift from the earth's atmosphere upon entering it.

Dr. Love's speech was prepared for a conference of American and Canadian defense-research space scientists jointly sponsored by VPI, the National Science Foundation, and NASA.

He said it well could be that a manned space ship, returning from a mission to the moon or the planets, could go into the re-entry phase at a faulty angle that would carry it wide of the area where recovery forces were waiting for the pickup. In that event, he said, a skip maneuver would be indicated.

The scientist also said space ships of the future might be equipped with throwaway compartments so that the final re-entry vehicle, reaching the earth, would be only the living quarters of the astronaut crew.

Committee Chairman Sylvester J. Greco said the proposal will be sent to the State Republican Committee.

The 63-year-old McCreary has been president judge for 16 years. A vacancy was created on the Supreme Court bench by the resignation of Chief Justice Alvin Jones.

COMMON MART NATIONS OK BRITISH MOVE

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP)—The six nations of the European Common Market agreed today to open negotiations with the British government for Britain's entry into the economic community.

The decision was made in a brief session of the foreign ministers of the six Common Market nations. They are in Paris for a quarterly meeting of the Western European Union (WEU), made up of the six and Britain.

Widespread praise in Britain and on the European continent greeted Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's historic announcement Monday that Britain would seek negotiations to join the continental economic group.

SUPPORT MOVE

Most of Britain's national newspapers supported the government's move, but there were warnings that months of difficult negotiations would be necessary to get concessions that would safeguard British sovereignty and the economies of British Commonwealth countries dependent on the British market.

French President Charles de Gaulle, anxious to make France the leader of a united Europe, was seen as the chief opponent of such concessions. Political informants said Macmillan would fly to Paris soon to try to smooth Britain's entry into the continental group.

Former Notre Dame Grid Coach Expires

ASHLAND, Kan. (AP)—Jesse Claire Harper, 77, former coach and athletic director at Notre Dame, died of a heart attack at his 20,000-acre cattle ranch near here Monday.

It was during Harper's first season at Notre Dame in 1913 that quarterback Gus Dorais and end Knute Rockne made the forward pass a potent weapon in football. Born at East Pawpaw, Ill., Dec. 10, 1883, Harper attended the University of Chicago 1902-06. He coached at Alma (Mich.) College 1906-08, at Wabash (Ind.) College 1908-13, then went to Notre Dame for five years as athletic director and coach of all sports.

or membership in the Common Market.

Denmark announced it would apply for membership. Austria declared its willingness to begin negotiations for a single European trading bloc. Sweden made a similar announcement. Norway's government indicated it favors joining the group, but said the decision is up to the Norwegian parliament.

Traditionally neutral Switzerland immediately expressed its distaste for the Common Market's developing drive toward political unity. President Fritz Wahlen said Switzerland "will under no circumstances make any concession with regard to its neutrality and sovereignty."

The seventh EFTA member, Portugal, said nothing.

The announcement by Macmillan caused alarm among the Commonwealth nations who fear British membership in the market would wreck the preferential system that gives special treatment to their exports to Britain.

Says Communist Program For Better, Easier Life In 20 Years "Won't Stick"

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Real communism for the Russians is still a long way off. They try to make it look otherwise. It won't stick.

In the 44 years since the revolution they've had socialism. Communism is still only a dream.

Nevertheless the Russian Communist party over the weekend released its program for the next 20 years. It holds out rich promise of a better and easier life.

Some Westerners, used to sneering at anything Soviet, are apt to call it pie in the sky stuff. There's no reason to.

Since the revolution in 1917 the Communist party in Russia has worked miracles.

BLOODY FOUNDATIONS

True, the miracles had bloody foundations: purges, liquidations, a whole generation of people kept at the grindstone and to a living standard far below this country's.

But the progress made is indisputable. Even greater progress can be expected.

If some of the program promises are made good they can be expected to affect other areas of the world in one way or another. For instance: the promise of free medicine, free housing.

The United States and Russia are in a contest for the minds of men through foreign aid to backward countries. The backward people, anxious to come abreast of the 20th century fast, may be more influenced by the progress in the two giants.

But the Russian Communist party goes too far when it says in its program: "The present generation of Soviet people shall live under communism."

TRIUMPHED COMPLETELY

"Socialism has triumphed in the Soviet Union completely and finally, within two decades, the Communist society will on the whole be built in the U.S.S.R."

Communism means a classless society where people get paid not in accordance with their work or merit but their needs.

Under socialism, which Russia has, there are classes and people get paid according to merit and work performed.

There are three distinct classes in Russia now: the intelligentsia, peasants and workers.

The intelligentsia is a broad grouping. It includes scientists, artists, writers, engineers, factory managers, bureaucrats, many kinds of white collar workers.

3 PEASANT RATINGS

The peasants and workers can be divided into skilled, semi-skilled, and unskilled.

The people in the three big groups, with all their subdivisions, get different pay, live in different kinds of houses.

The new party program, with its rosy predictions of 20 years from now, says "communism is a classless social system (in which) the great principle from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs" will be implemented.

VO GUARANTEE

This part of the program is doubletalk. Read carefully, it doesn't actually promise that within 20 years a man will be paid according to his needs.

It said: "The present generation of Soviet people shall live under communism."

"In the current decade (1961-1970) the Soviet Union (will be) creating the material and technical basis of communism."

"In the next decade (1971-1980) the material and technical basis of communism will be created (and) will come close to the stage where it can introduce the principle of distribution according to needs."

WAGES TO NEEDS

Note: it said that day will be close. What's close? Another 20 years?

Stalin himself said "we cannot tolerate a situation where a railway locomotive driver earns only as much as a copying clerk."

Marx and Lenin both said the difference between skilled and unskilled labor would exist under socialism, even after classes had been abolished, that only under communism would this difference disappear and wages be paid according to need.

So, before the Russians start changing their pay scales, they'll have to abolish classes. That will take some doing. Once a group gets into a favored position it doesn't yield easily. And there are a lot of favored groups in Russia.

COLUMNIST'S MAIL BRINGS MANY GEMS

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Looking for a simple way to cut down on the number of mosquito bites you suffer this summer? Then simply quit breathing. A study by U.S. bug experts found the insects are attracted by the carbon dioxide you exhale.

No wonder dogs are more agile than people. It's simpler for them to get around. A dog uses four muscles per leg while walking; the human leg 40 muscles.

ICE CREAM EATERS

Speaking of Rover, did you know a cat's bite is usually more serious than a dog's?

Prosperity note: More than 75 per cent of the nation's families own at least one automobile. And some 13 per cent own two or more.

Can you name America's favorite dessert? It's not apple pie or cake, but ice cream. We consume 800 million gallons a year, or some 18 quarts per person.

Our quotable notables: "The trouble with marriage is that, while every woman is at heart a mother, every man is at heart a bachelor."—E. V. Lucas.

DEFENDER OF SLANG

Tip to parents: Don't give up hope for your Johnny if he is a slow reader. President Woodrow Wilson, one of the most intellectual men of his day, didn't learn to read well until he was 11.

Target for yesterday: "Buffalo Bill" Cody once won a $1,000 bet by sticking up an ordinary ten of spades playing card, then stepping back 12 paces and shooting every spot from it with his six-shooter without a single miss.

Slang is often denounced by fussy-minded purists but Carl Sandburg, a poet of the people, defined slang as "language that takes off its coat, spits on his hands, and goes to work."

NATURAL ENGINEERS

Nature notes: The bee, like the spider, is born an expert engineer. The hexagonal cells bees build, about 55 in a square inch of honeycomb, are geometrically perfect forms.

Executive slogans: "This one's the favorite of Irving J. Botner, shoe polish tycoon: "The only job where you can start at the top is in digging a hole."

Vocabulary for the space age: The word "meteor" is of Greek origin. Literally, it means "things in the air."

People versus trees: Foresters fear it may be necessary to clear 73 million acres of timberland between now and the year 2,000 to provide space for more farmland, highways, airports and suburban home developments needed by our exploding population.

SUNSHINE FAR SOUTH

Wisecrack of the week: Singer Sal Mineo tells of the Gypsy kid who plans to run away from home—as soon as his parents get one.

The healthier Americans get the more medicine they seem to take. Since 1949 the annual number of prescriptions filled increased from 2 a person to 3.5. Price of the average prescription today: $3.25.

Hot weather geographical tidbit: In December the South Pole receives more sunshine than any other place on earth.

It was Compton MacKenzie who observed, "Women do not find it difficult nowadays to behave like men, but they often find it extremely difficult to behave like gentlemen."

GENEVA (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman Monday called on the 14-nation Laotian conference to agree on a controlled withdrawal of all foreign troops from Laos.

He repeated that the United States is willing to pull out the U.S. military advisers assigned to the government of Premier Boum Oum.

But he insisted this must be matched by the withdrawing of the foreign Communist units serving the rebel Pathet Lao forces.

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's navy got its third submarine Monday with the launching of the 750-ton Hayashio at Kobe, 350 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The navy's other submarines are the Japan-made Oyashio and the U.S.-made Kuroshio.

AGREE TO DIVISION

Less than a year before Hitler's body was burned in his chancellery garden, his major enemies agreed to divide the city. The Western allies got the more populous half, with some of the best living quarters. The Soviet sector included the central district of government buildings and shops, but there was little left of them.

The system of four-power rule did not last in Berlin. By 1948, East and West Berlin had separate currencies and city governments. They were soon to have separate — and unconnected — telephone, electric power and surface transport systems. Subway and elevated trains, however, continued to run through both parts of the city. There was little interference with pedestrians and private cars. The only time the Iron Curtain was effectively rolled down was for a few days during the anti-Communist uprising of 1953.

But the Communists isolated

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

PROPHETS and TEACHERS—1

St. Luke's faith manifested itself in his Gospel and the Acts. The "beloved physician" and friend of St. Paul wrote of women with a spirit "so tender it saw further than almost any save the Master himself into the soul of womanhood." He wrote of compassion for suffering humanity, of the universality of Christianity, and he revealed the "neighbor" whom we are to love as our fellow man in need, in the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Berlin, Seat Of Crisis, U. S. SWEEPS TRACK MEETS, WHIPS POLAND

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this first of a series of four stories intended to illuminate the problems that make up the Berlin crisis, AP correspondent Carl Hartman, a veteran observer of the German scene, outlines the historical background of the isolated, divided, threatened city.

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Isolated, divided, threatened—these are the words most often used to describe Berlin. All of them are accurate.

But just as remarkable is one characteristic of the city that no single word can describe. It is the only place on earth where you can walk across the street from communism into the Western world, and vice versa.

This is a legacy from Adolf Hitler and the Nazis whose swastika banners flew in Berlin from 1933 until the country was driven to collapse in 1945.

SPLIT OCCUPATION

The Red army occupied the city in the closing days of World War II but then turned over a little more than half the city to the Americans, French and British allies.

This division in defeat was a low point for a city that had once been the capital of efficient Prussian monarchs and steely German emperors. Hitler was the last ruler of a united Germany to ride in triumph along its broad boulevards.

The Nazi dictator built a new chancellery in what was then the center of the city, next to the president's palace, near the U.S., British, French and Soviet embassies. Western bombers and Russian artillery destroyed them all, along with 43 per cent of all the housing in the city. All that is left of the chancellery now is a little grass-covered hill just inside the border of the Soviet sector—East Berlin.

EAST BERLIN

East Berlin has much less to show in the way of construction, least of all in what was once the heart of the city. Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden, the great names among Berlin streets, are dead. Shops are poorly stocked and the stock is sleazy. There are few people on the streets and their clothes, though adequate, are weary-looking. Cars are scarce.

Hundreds of refugees have been coming over to West Berlin every day, and at peak periods the daily figure has topped the 1,000 mark. Though they have had to leave behind almost everything they owned, they have had good prospects for jobs.

The flight of refugees has hit the Communists heavily, in both their economy and their propaganda. West Germans are fond of saying that although voters don't have any opportunity for choice in an election on Communist ter-

West Berlin much more effectively from West Germany. This was easy, since the city lies in the middle of Soviet-controlled East Germany, with the rest of the Western world 110 miles away.

CONTACT AREAS

The Communists permitted contact between West Berlin and West Germany only across two canals, four roads, four rail lines and three air corridors. Communist East Germans took control of the overland routes, except for a small amount of Western military traffic. The Soviets continue to work with the three Western allies in controlling the air lanes through the Berlin Air Safety Center.

In June 1948, the Communists blocked everything but the air corridors and the "knapsack-lift"—smuggling. For 11 months a Western airlift—mainly American—supplied West Berlin's 2½ million citizens.

Rations and fuel were short, but there was no talk of giving in to Communist pressure.

AFTER BLOCKADE

After the blockade ended, Western authorities set about building up stockpiles of everything a city needs, from hairpins to the bulky and uneconomic brown coal that heats so many Berlin homes. Supplies for about 18 months were accumulated.

It was after the blockade, too, that West Germany's "economic miracle" spread to Berlin and developed the contrast between the East and West sectors. Now anyone can see it by taking a short ride on the elevated.

West Berlin is a city of new buildings, has heavily stocked and even luxurious shops. Streets are filled with well-dressed people and there is the beginning of a traffic problem. The air of prosperity is none the less genuine for being based on heavy subsidies from West Germany and the United States.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Richard K. O'Malley, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Paris, flew to Bizerte for a look at the city following the French-Tunisian fighting there.

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY
BIZERTE (AP)—The tall Tunisian soldier shook his head and said: "Nobody is allowed in the Casbah except with a special pass and you have to get it from the governor."

Behind him the Casbah baked in a hot sun. The narrow streetway was deserted.

Behind me, about 50 yards away, a little group of French paratroopers stood behind sandbag emplacements. Along the street tanks were parked. There was no traffic.

QUIET AS VILLAGE

Bizerte, a city with a normal population of about 30,000 people, was as quiet as a village on Sunday.

There was no real air of tension nor of expectancy. French paratroopers joked and laughed quietly. Not far off, in the buff and white alleyways leading into the Casbah, helmeted Tunis

PARTY CHIEFS PUT PRESSURE ON PRESIDENT

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic liberals are putting pressure on President Kennedy not to bow to the demands of a congressional coalition for domestic spending cuts to offset defense increases.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, kicked off the campaign Monday with a Senate speech calling for long-range welfare planning to out-do Soviet Premier Khrushchev's 20-year plan.

Humphrey, who is in and out of the White House almost daily, is known to have personally urged Kennedy to stick by his New Frontiers program despite efforts by Republicans and Southern Democrats to force domestic retrenchments.

PLEDGE BALANCED BUDGET

Kennedy's recommendations for increased military spending in connection with the Berlin crisis were accompanied by a pledge for a balanced budget in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Congressional economy advocates have contended that there won't be a balanced budget unless domestic outlays are reduced sharply. Liberals argue that increased government outlays will accelerate the economy and bring in much higher Treasury revenues.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, said he like Humphrey, doesn't want to stop social progress. But he said that runaway inflation might cancel any such gains if spending gets out of hand.

WOULD SUIT KHRUSHCHEV

Humphrey said that nothing would suit Khrushchev more "than to find us going into a military buildup at the expense of strengthening our own economy and social structure."

"The military buildup, which I strongly support, must not be accomplished at the sacrifice of our domestic programs nor at the sacrifice of our long-term program to increase the living standards of the underdeveloped nations," Humphrey said.

3 Escape Injury In Plane Crash

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP)—Three persons escaped serious injury Monday in the crash of their light plane in the Laurel Mountains near Ligonier in Westmoreland County.

Roger King, 29, of Farrington, N. J., the pilot, was admitted to McGinnis Hospital in satisfactory condition. Two 17-year-old passengers, Robert Kushner and Robert Weir, both of Port Vue, near Pittsburgh, were treated and released.

State police said the trio reportedly was enroute to Bridgeport, N. J., to do some repair work on the Beechcraft Bonanza. The plane took off from Allegheny County Airport near Pittsburgh.

Officers said the craft hit a thunderstorm and crashed after King turned around and started back to the airport.

LITTLESTOWN — Rev. William C. TWO VIOLENT STORMS STRIKE JOHNSTOWN IN TWELVE HOURS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Workers in the Johnstown area labored today to finish cleaning up debris left by two violent thunderstorms that struck 12 hours apart Monday.

The second storm, which dumped about an inch of rain on the area in 45 minutes, hampered the efforts of workers clearing debris from the first storm.

Heavy winds accompanied the second storm while violent thunder and lightning added to the ferocity of the first. Two inches of rain fell in a little more than an hour in the morning.

The heavy rains caused flash flooding of streets and cellars. Tree limbs and rocks blocked creeks, causing their overflow.

Water blocked streets and highways and delayed transportation. Gobs of mud were deposited on streets and debris was scattered throughout the area, on porches and in yards.

BASEMENTS ARE FLOODED

Basements of several public buildings were flooded. Among these were Lee Hospital and the Public Safety Building.

Sections of Indiana County also suffered storm damage. In Bolivar, west of Johnstown, some residents reported six to seven feet of water in their cellars. Streets were covered by as much as a foot and a half of water. Mud and rocks littered the streets after the water was cleared away.

A wooden bridge on Route 250 in Robinson was washed out in the first storm. The storm also battered in walls of some houses and flooded streets.

Johnstown city officials and civil defense officials toured their area but withheld any estimate of damage.

Heavy rains also caused flash floods in parts of eastern Pennsylvania, particularly in Philadelphia and Levittown.

Clogged drains and poor drainage backed up as much as two feet of water into some homes in the Philadelphia area.

Lightning struck a Philadelphia Electric Co. transformer in Levittown. Flames sputtered from the transformer but service was not disrupted.

Soap Box Derby Is Held Sunday

LITTLESTOWN — The annual soap box derby of Cub Pack 81 was held Sunday afternoon on the new junior-senior high school driveway. The winner was Jon Little and the next fastest drivers received prizes as follows: Donald Morgret, a coppersmith kit; tied, Richard Thomas Jr., cooking kit; Gary Wolf, flashlight. Cubmaster Alvah H. Stoner was the starter; Den Father Leslie Shinham, timekeeper. Several hundred persons witnessed the event.

Plans are being made to attend a big league baseball game. Pack officials and den mothers will hold their fall planning session August 28 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Luther W. Ritter, Glenwyn Dr.

The Junior Woman's Club of Littlestown will hold a family picnic August 13 at 1 p.m. at Raubenstein's Pool, Hershey Heights. Each family will take a basket lunch and soda will be furnished. There will be games and prizes.

The pro-Western Boun Oum said he was "optimistic" about the talks on composition of a coalition government and hoped Souvanna would return to Vientiane with him. Souvanna is expected to head a coalition government.

Laos' third political leader, pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong, has threatened to boycott the Cambodia meeting. But Souvanna said in Phnom Penh he expects his half-brother to take part.

Two Drown In Old Clay Strip Mine

BERLIN, Pa. (AP)—A man and a woman have drowned in a water-filled clay strip mine near Berlin in Somerset County. State police Monday recovered the bodies of Wayne R. Fogle, 26, of Berlin, and Mrs. Noreen Watkins, 33, of Berlin R. 4, from about eight feet of water.

Officers said Fogle and Mrs. Watkins went on a picnic in the area Sunday and drowned while swimming. The bodies were clad in swimming outfits.

A car found parked about a mile from the mine led police to investigate. They discovered clothing near the pit, and then searched the water.

European Common Market Is U.S. Business Chance

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Many American businessmen contend today that the bigger and stronger European trading bloc now in the making can be more of an opportunity for American business than a competitive threat.

This also has been the official U.S. government view over the last decade. It has applauded the idea of the European Common Market. This has the long-term goal of making trade between its members as free as that between the states of the American Union.

The Common Market nations have shown remarkable industrial growth in the last few years, as tariff walls were being lowered bit by bit. American firms have found a big market there for their goods. And an increasing number have spent large sums building branch plants in Europe to get in on the common benefits.

OTHERS MAY JOIN

With Britain leading the way, there's now a likelihood that other European nations will join the Common Market, either on a full or partial membership basis.

The Common Market consists of France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. The Outer Seven consists of the United Kingdom, Switzerland, Austria, Portugal, Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

Some American businessmen see the efforts of the Inner Six and the Outer Seven to get together as a potential threat to U.S. business. They think the absence of tariffs among the European members and the common tariff wall against outside goods, will further hamstring American exports. And as Europe prospers industrially, its goods may become more of a competitive threat in American markets.

HANDICAPS OFFSET

Other businessmen admit these handicaps will exist. But they say this can be offset by the general rise in European industry which mean more markets for industrial goods that Americans make best. Also a general rise in European consumer prosperity will give new millions the wherewithal to buy the kind of consumer goods that Americans lead in developing and producing.

The official U.S. government view of both the present administration and its predecessor is that anything that widens markets and increases the demand for goods benefits everyone sooner or later.

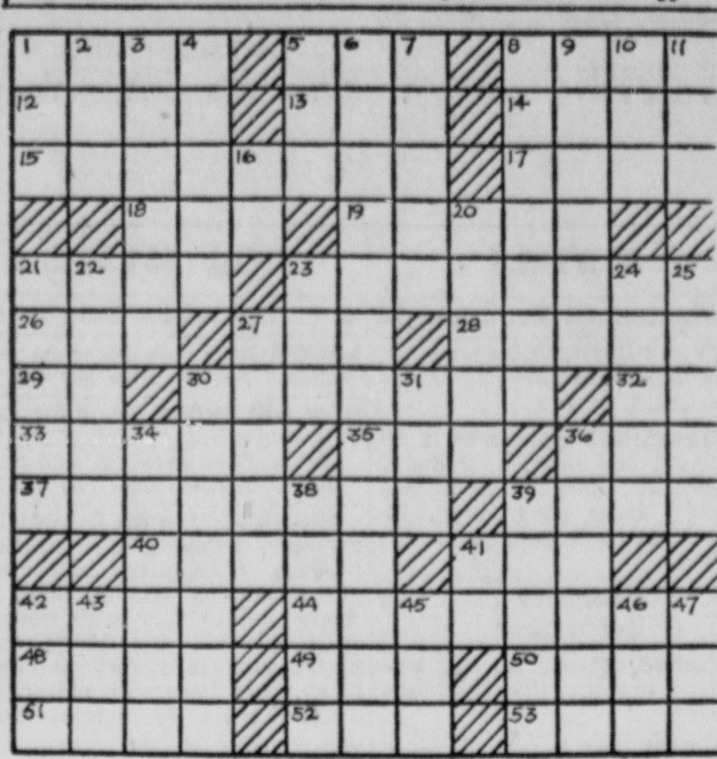

The Common Market was set up in 1957 and since then the exports of the Inner Six have boomed. But at the same time there has been a steady rise in their imports from the United States.

ENGLISH VIEW

England's urge to come to terms with the Common Market is that her exports have been trailing her imports. This has caused a drain on her gold and currency reserves and a weakening in the pound sterling.

She wants to trade with the Inner Six countries on the same terms that they trade with each other. There has been a gradual decrease in their tariffs on each other's goods, and in time such

Miner Haunted By Fiery Car Crash That Killed Eleven

By GEORGE W. HACKETT
NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—When his body healed, Hexie Maxie came out of the desolate eastern Kentucky hills to seek peace. He hasn't found it yet.

The former coal miner's life changed seven years ago today after a ghastly, 30-second ride in an ancient auto down one of the highest mountains of the Cumberland chain.

There were 12 passengers, including Maxie's wife and three children, but only he survived the fiery crash which the National Safety Council called the worst single auto accident in its history.

"CAN'T SLEEP"

"I still can't sleep some nights thinking about it," Maxie said. He stopped to fill a customer's order. "I got out of mining and drifted into restaurant work after it happened."

Maxie remembers the excitement when his brother-in-law, Thomas Brown, bought the 13-year-old car the day before the mishap.

TRIP TO MINE

"Our wives wanted to see the coal mine where both of us worked so we decided to make the trip the next day. We wanted to be a holiday." The Maxies, Brown, his wife, their four children, and a teenage girl who lived with them crowded into the automobile and started out.

All went well "until we came over the crest of Pine Mountain near Whitesburg."

NO BRAKES

"He (Brown) tried his brakes and didn't have any."

The car, rolling down the steep, winding highway, bounced off one cliff to another, overturned, and burst into flames. Maxie got out a rear window. The others were trapped inside.

Maxie says the gasoline tank caught fire as he escaped.

GRABBED AXE

He grabbed an axe—"I still do not know where it came from"—and tried to hack an opening for the others until the heat drove him away. When he went back a second time he was pulled away by bystanders.

Maxie, burned severely over most of his body, spent months in a hospital. When he was finally released Maxie moved from town to town and finally came to Newport.

Last week the 42-year-old restaurant worker went home for the first time since the accident, but his memories drove him away again. "It'll be a long time before I return."

Maxie rides in an auto from time to time but never has learned to drive.

"I don't want the responsibility."

TV WESTERNS HAVE LOWEST POLL GRADES

NEW YORK (AP)—TV Westerns and deodorant commercials were given the lowest grades of all television programming in a poll conducted by the National Audience Board.

The board, reporting Sunday on a poll of more than 2,400 "community opinion leaders," said 68 per cent of the leaders had turned thumbs down on horse operas, while 91 per cent had turned noses up at deodorant commercials.

The board judged most American television mediocre, with some notable exceptions:

NEWS AND WEATHER

News and weather shows were rated good or excellent by 85 per cent, while public affairs shows got good or excellent marks from 81 per cent and sports from 72 per cent.

Top honors went to "CBS Reports," "Chet Huntley Reporting" and "Twentieth Century." Those were the "most regularly viewed" and "most outstanding" of nationally televised public affairs programs chosen by the community leaders.

Next to Western shows, at the other end of the scale, came the mystery-adventure programs. They were rated poor or fair by 64 per cent.

Next to deodorants in the commercial category were ads for women's undergarments, and drugs. These drew poor or fair ratings from 78 per cent of the voters.

The National Audience Board is a nonprofit organization representing civic, cultural, business, educational and church groups, including the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the American Legion and the National Council of Churches.

Weekend Wreck Claims 2nd Life

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A weekend auto wreck in adjacent Crawford County claimed its second life Monday.

Charles Manley, 76, of Natrona Heights, an Allegheny County community near Tarentum, died at the Greenville Hospital.

tariffs are due to disappear. Americans also would like to have these same trading advantages when selling in Europe. And some American goods are going to find the tariff barrier all but prohibitive. England's austerity measures aimed at restricting British consumer spending, especially on imports, is going to hurt, too.

The hope of the optimists, however, is that when Britain rights its economic boat again and all Europe grows even more prosperous, the bigger markets will help American business: prosperous nations buy goods, impoverished nations don't.
